CO-OPERATION GROWS.

Fifty Thousand Societies Now Organized in America.

STORES ON THE ROCHDALE PLAN.

Estimated That One-fourth of the Total Population of the Country is Interested—Especially Strong in the West-Pacific Coast the Pioneer.

A few years ago the fruit producers of California, or at any rate in many of the small towns and villages, realized that they were getting little for their crops, says a recent writer in the Saturday Evening Post. They also realized that they were paying far too much for the supplies which they needed to conduct their business and to live. They formed co-operative societies. They banded together to sell their produce as one man. They bought their supplies by the wholesale for themselves.

Last year forty-five societies on the Rochdale co-operative system and representing societies from Dos Palos, Santa Rosa, Sacramento, Oakland and so on through all the California centers, did a business amounting to over $15,000,000. They have formed for themselves a wholesale society in San Francisco.

In the state of Washington there are over twenty-four successful co-operative societies on the same lines.

In Kansas there are thirty-six successful co-operative stores now in full blast.

In Iowa there are hundreds of co-operative creameries, and attention has been already drawn all over the country to the wonderful achievements of the Rockwell Co-operative society, formed of farmers, with a membership of a few hundred at $10 apiece, which did a business last year of $300,000, or, as they figure it, both ways, buying and selling, a business of $600,000, and at a cost of less than 1 per cent.

A western federation of miners has run four quasi co-operative stores at Cripple Creek, Colo.; the mill men of Monessen, Pa., have started a co-operative store; the Co-operative Creamery association of Utica, Mich., did a business of 120,000 pounds of butter last year, bringing an average of 23 cents a pound; the labor unions of Denver have organized a co-operative store; the people of Elwood, Ind., have subscribed shares for a co-operative coal company and have already saved 10 per cent on their coal; Deposit, N. Y., has a co-operative store on the same lines as those of Delphi and Port Jervis. The last named has accumulated and paid in profits $800,000 in the last twenty-five years; Montana has a co-operative ranch with 900 shareholders scattered all over the United States, nearly 150 of whom are women; employees of the Chicago and Alton railway have a co-operative society in Bloomington, Ill.; the labor unions of South Omaha, Neb., have established a co-operative store; the Farmers' Supply company is a new co-operative society of Anita, Ia.; Milwaukee has now a large co-operative department store, and a great co-operative enterprise is spoken of for the establishment of branch co-operative stores in various parts of the country; the employees of the shipyards at Newport News, Va., have started a co-operative store; the miners of Ohio have by unanimous vote decided to open several co-operative stores; Lansing, Mich., has a co-operative association with a capital stock of $25,000.

The Central Pomona Exchange at Syracuse, N. Y., and others at Herkimer, Little Falls and other places are doing well.

The railway men at Parsons, Kan., have started a co-operative store. The farmers of Albert Lea, Minn., now have a co-operative store. The farmers of Manitowish, Wis., have lately established a co-operative store. The unions of the Black Hills district of South Dakota have started a co-operative store at Lead, S. D. Lake Linden society of Lake Linden, Mich., has just declared its fourth annual dividend of 7 1/2 per cent on purchases and 7 per cent on shares, to be divided among 418 members.

Most of the stores now being established are on the Rochdale system. Membership is obtained by purchase of shares at $5 or $10 apiece, which is used as a fund to buy supplies in quantity, and the profits made out of the saving effected by buying in quantity are divided among the members according to the amount they buy.

Many of the societies and organizations are, however, organized on what is known as the civil service plan, so named after the great Civil Service Co-operative association and the Army and Navy stores of London. Their object is to sell at cost price as near as possible, and a membership is not always the same as a partnership in the business, which is looked upon more or less as an investment, and which investment receives the profits over and above the cost of running the establishment and the low price charged members for their supplies. There are something like 50,000 societies in America at this time of various kinds. There are 5,000 "co-operative" building and loan associations alone, but these societies are scarcely of the true co-operative kind. There are 400 fraternal co-operative societies, 2,000 mutual fire co-operative societies, 5,000 co-operative creameries and cheese factories and about 3,000 co-operative telephone companies, the most striking of which is in Michigan, where in one county for $3 a year the farmers are able to have telephone conversation with all points in their county, and through their own central telephone exchange to all parts of the nation.

FLY CATCHES.

Charles Moran deserves all the nice things said about his playing in St. Louis.

O'Neil, the catcher Cincinnati wanted the Phillies to take, has been sent to Louisville.

Pitcher Ferrell of Grand Rapids, who has just been bought by Cincinnati, is looked upon as the find of the middle west this year.

An exchange remarks that the National league batting disappointments this year are Barclay, Brunsfield, Casey, Geier and Kling.

Frank Selee says that he has six new outfielders to try out. "You must be on the lookout for new material all the time," says Selee.

Connie Mack is after several American association players. It would not be surprising to find several new faces in the 1905 Athletics.

In Boston they say Fred Parent is better this season than at any time in his career. He leads the team in stick work, Jimmy Collins running close second.

Mike Lynch says all the ball players who have seen Walter Clarkson work for the New York Americans think he will be a wonder before the season ends.

CHURCH AND CLERGY.

Seven churches, two Bible societies and the army and navy branch of the Y. M. C. A. represent the Protestant forces now at work in the Philippine Islands.

The Baptists purpose raising $500,000 within five years to be invested in this country as an endowment fund for the educational work in the foreign field.

The National cathedral of the Protestant Episcopal church at Washington now includes property worth $363,532. One contribution of $200,000 has built a cathedral school for girls and another bequest provides for the building and endowment of a school for boys.

The model for the proposed statue of the late Rev. C. H. Spurgeon has been placed in the entrance hall of the Baptist Church House, in London, and has been much praised. It shows Mr. Spurgeon in a characteristic pulpit attitude, his right hand upraised in gesture, his left resting on the Bible.
